Library of Congress

Has the government given to Messrs. McCurdy Baldwin or Dr. Graham Bell any financial or other aid to encourage them in their efforts to navigate the air?

Sir FREDERICK BORDEN. The Department of Militia and Defence placed the Petewawa camp grounds at the disposal of Messrs. McCurdy and Baldwin during the past summer, for the purpose of carrying out trials with their aerodromes, and lent the services of one or two engineer officers and men to assist them when required.

The Department also erected a shed for the temporary housing of Messrs. McCurdy and Baldwin's machines while at Petewawa.

No financial assistance was given.
